Minden MNR gets $367,000 to ease recession

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Ministry of Natural Resources operations in Minden and Dorset have been given more than $350,000 in special funding to help bolster the local economy during the recession.

Victoria-Haliburton MPP Dennis

Drainville made the announcement on behalf of natural resources minister Bud Wildman during a press conference at the MNR office in Minden on Friday that was also attended by local ministry officials.

The money, which is part of the provincial government's $700 million initiative to ease recessionary woes throughout the province, will be used for forestry improvements in the Minden area and capital improvements at the Frost Centre in Dorset.

"The provincial government decided to fast-track these projects to help people out in the difficult times ahead," said Drainville.

In total $367,000 has been allocated to the Minden and Dorset operations and will be used to create 429 person weeks of employment in the two communities.

The Minden office will receive $325,000 to be used for forestry maintenance and improvements that will require 405 person weeks of labour.

Unit Forester Peter Hynard said the money will be used for forestry projects the ministry would otherwise be unable to afford. "It's welcome money," he said.

After 100 years of lumbering operations in the area, Hynard says some local forests are in deteriorated conditions.

The biggest project the ministry will undertake with the funding is to improve the condition of almost 1,000 acres of hardwood forest in the area. Hynard says stands of hardwood will be thinned to promote growth.

Other initiatives include improvements to about 200 acres of white pine stands, clearing and thinning 100 acres of plantations and the planting of 70,000 new trees in cut-over areas.

In order that government money is not used to produce timber in competition with the private sector, Hynard says the ministry will tender out the logging operations to contractors.

With the logging industry suffering from the recession, Hynard says the work provided by the project will help companies who are having trouble finding work.

Although he doesn't know how many jobs will be created by the project, Hynard said the operations will provide about six months of labour.

The pruning and thinning will begin early in the new year and the tree planting will begin once the snow melts.

The Frost Centre will receive $42,000 to pay for an expansion of one of the dormitory buildings to provide additional conference space and a covered entrance for the largest of the dormitories.

Bob Stewart, acting director of the centre, says with the money the ministry will be able to hire two local carpenters for 12 weeks each to assist in the work.

Drainville said the $700 million package does not mean the government is trying to spend its way out of the recession. Faced with a $2.5 billion deficit, he said the NDP government knows it has to maintain fiscal responsibility.

"But at the same time, we acknowledge that recessions hurt people," said Drainville. "These initiatives are being taken to lighten the blow."

Reeve wants freeze on taxes

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Minden's reeve has asked the township's council not to raise municipal taxes during next year's budget deliberations.

In a 'state of the municipality' address given at last Thursday's meeting, Reeve Ray Moore said he believes that council can design a budget with a zero per cent increase in Minden's portion of the tax bill.

"I am pleased with the projected confidence in the Minden area, the commercial development of motels, stores and businesses, all new assessment," said Moore. "I am encouraged by the positive attitude to request this council to work towards a zero increase of taxes for our portion in 1991.

"I am aware that we have a minimal control over the county portion and no control over the board of education's requisition. I know it will be hard, but I think we can do it."

Moore said he will be asking department heads to "minimize their expect-tations" while drafting their budget requests and "take out the widgets and gizmos that could be included in future budgets, not necessarily in 1991.

"As I look to 1991, I envision a need to focus on all departments to give reasonable increases in wages and merit increases to those people deserving of them," said Moore. "It would please me to have a happy, contented staff working productively, creating ways to make this corp-

Parkland sale questioned

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

The decision to sell a piece of parkland to the Staunworth Non-Profit Housing Corporation is being criticised by Minden's Deputy-Reeve.

At last Thursday's council meeting, Bern Berry, who voted against the sale on Nov. 8, pointed out that Staunworth was willing to pay $145,000 for a two-acre lot on Prince St. while the township received only $50,000 for a 3.5-acre piece of parkland.

Berry said he'd objected to the low price at the time of sale. "The money would go into our parks reserve and could have been used for the arena," said Berry.

Council learned of Staunworth's $145,000 offer for the Prince St. property from the minutes of the corporation's Nov. 1 meeting. The township didn't receive those minutes until Nov. 19, more than a week after council voted to sell the piece of parkland.

"I'm disappointed we didn't receive the information until after the council meeting," said Berry. "If we'd known about the other offer, the decision could have been reflected on properly."

The property that Staunworth purchased from the township is designated for a supportive housing complex the corporation is applying to build.

The Prince St. lot was being investigated as a possible site of 20 family housing units the province has recently given approval for.

Reeve Ray Moore, defending the decision to sell the parkland for $50,000, said the more money Staunworth had to pay for the land would have meant less

Charges laid in illegal sale of animal parts

The Ministry of Natural Resources has laid 35 charges of illegally selling, possessing or offering for sale parts of game animals against 12 people in MNR's Algonquin region.

A joint force of MNR conservation officers and Ontario Provincial Police officers is conducting a field operation in the Pembroke, Bancroft and Whitney areas to record statements and notify defendants of charges.

This operation concludes a one-year investigation which concentrated on the activities of seven tourist operators and five other people, including three guides. The investigation was based on complaints and information from the Whitney Game and Fish Club.

During the investigation, the gall bladders and claws of bears, and moose antler in velvet were purchased. An MNR official was offered the opportunity to purchase deer meat.

Charges have been laid under Section 51 (1) of the Game and Fish Act which says: "Except under the authority of a licence and subject to the regulations, no person shall sell, offer for sale, purchase or barter, or be concerned in the sale, purchase or barter of a game animal or possess game animal for sale."

"Our investigation confirmed that there is an international market for bear gall bladders that pays very high prices. The galls are apparently used in a variety of folk medicines," said Richard Stankiewicz, enforcement/fish and wildlife management co-ordinator for MNR's Algonquin Park district.

"We are concerned that illegal commercial marketing of bear gall bladders and other animal parts, whether they come from animals hunted legally or illegally, will increase illegal hunting of animals and lead to a decline in animal population," he added.

The investigation is part of a commitment MNR made in September 1989 to step up enforcement of the sections of the Game and Fish Act that prohibit illegal sale of animal parts and is consistent with the approach of most other jurisdictions in Canada and the United States.

MNR filed the charge informations in Pembroke. Proceedings are expected to begin early next year in provincial offences court in Killaloe. The charges under the Game and Fish Act carry a maximum fine of $25,000.

Lutterworth's reeve is new county warden

Haliburton County's new warden, Lutterworth reeve Carol Puffer smiles with pride after accepting the robe of office from past warden Don Shortreed during last Tuesday's inaugural meeting.

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Haliburton County's new warden officially took office last Tuesday night, calling for co-operation among the 10 municipalities.

Lutterworth Reeve Carol Puffer was elected as the new head of county council after being the only nominee for the position.

After accepting the robe of office from past Warden Don Shortreed, Puffer addressed the councillors from her new seat at the front of the chamber, often referring to the county as a family.

"Counties came into being by organizing on co-operative basis the delivery of services that individual municipalities could not economically themselves provide," said Puffer.

Roads and libraries were two of the earliest responsibilities taken on by the county and in 1987 local Social Service delivery was assumed.

"Since then our family of municipalities has continued to work together to look after each other in many ways," said Puffer.

Referring to some of the county's more recent initiatives, Puffer said the municipalities have, on a co-operative basis, requested county-wide property tax re-assessment, started a waste management master plan, begun work on a peace time emergency measures plan, and completed and endorsed an economic development strategy.

"We have supported unquestionably, regardless of the location in our county home, an 18-bed continuing care hospital expansion," said Puffer.

She said county council has also agreed to assess the possible restructuring of the county, "in order to ensure that our system is most capable of meeting not only today's challenges but those in the future."

It came as no surprise that the economic development study recommended the county proceed with a county official plan, said Puffer. "We acknowledge that the environment has a limited capacity to accommodate ad hoc growth without a substantial decline in quality throughout the county."

A county official plan will also enable the county to better organize economical development and allow for more efficient delivery of services, she said.

"All of these issues present a daunting challenge for us in 1991," said Puffer. "However with cooperation and open communication, which includes listening and understanding, we will accomplish a great deal."

"As warden for 1991, I will make every effort to follow in the footsteps of our immediate past warden Mr. Shortreed, to work together to facilitate cooperation and communication with the belief that the greatest good for the greatest number prevails."

Victoria-Haliburton MPP Dennis Drainville was unable to attend Tuesday's ceremony due to duties at Queen's Park but sent along his congratulations to Puffer in a letter and extended an offer of assistance in presenting the county's needs to the provincial government.

MP Bill Scott offered his best wishes to Puffer in person and commended Shortreed for his representation of Haliburton County during the past year.

Scott, who began his political career as reeve of Snowdon in 1967, said he felt at home in the Haliburton county council chambers where he "cut his teeth" in politics.

"I heard my parents talk about it," quipped Stanhope Reeve Harry Davis.

Scott praised the councillors as volunteers who give up their time to serve their communities without compensation. "You're not only serving your communities you're contributing to society," said Scott. "It's the volunteer sector which makes this country tick."

Residents of Haliburton County are being well served by their hard working councillors, said Scott. "You're progressive, aggressive people," he said. "There are a lot of issues you promote one way or another and we hear a lot about you, that augurs well for the area."

With the recent election of Doris Brick as the warden of Peterborough County, Scott said women are becoming more prominent in local municipal politics. "Gals, you're taking a little advantage."

In response, Puffer said the only difference between a male warden and a female warden, "is a comfortable pair of shoes."

oration more efficient in service to all our ratepayers."

In his statement, Moore expressed optimism at the local economy's chances to weather the current recession and the township's sound financial state.

"I sense a community spirit arising from the business sector and citizens, doing their part to meet the challenges ahead," said Moore. "By supporting the local economy, it is my considered opinion the Anson, Hindon and Minden community will be going into this recession in fairly good shape."

Moore said the township's debt load and expenditures are stabilized and major capital investments, like buildings and equipment, are in good shape and paid for. "We don't have huge debentures with high interest rates eating up our tax dollars," he said.

By using some of the municipality's resources, Moore said council should create jobs in the township by pressing ahead with capital projects.

With the money already in reserve, Moore said the township should proceed with the addition to the community centre and should seriously look at building an addition to the township office including an elevator to the second floor for wheelchair access to the council chamber and court facilities.

He suggested expanding the PRIDE project to create more lighting and parking facilities in the downtown area. With the economy in recession, Moore said bids for these projects will be more competitive resulting in lower construction costs.

"The opportunity exists for us to get a bigger bang for our buck," he said. "Let's go for it."

Moore also used the opportunity to try and dispell the appearance of dissention among Minden's councillors. "It is my belief, regardless of the perception out in the public, that this council has matured and are giving back to the community reasonably good leadership and financial accountability," he said.

"There are problems to be solved, however with a co-operative attitude between our staff and council I believe we can solve them."

He closed his address by thanking staff, committee members and councillors for their hard work during the past year.

Director of Education announces retirement

by Susan Grober

Haliburton County's Director of Education has announced he will retire at the end of July.

Stuart Baker has spent 36 years in the education system and has been director of the board for a little over six years. He made the announcement to trustees at last Thursday's board meeting.

"We're all very sorry to see him leave, needless to say," Chairman Cheryl Murdoch told The Times on Friday. "He's been an excellent director."

Murdoch pointed out that Baker has had a very full career in education, working as a teacher, principal and director.

"It's hard to believe he's been in our system for 36 years," she said.

According to former chairman Len Salvatori, Baker started out his career in a small school in Minden. He gradually worked up as principal at the Lakeview school and then principal at Archie Stouffer. He also worked as vice-principal at the high school on an exchange basis.

"So he's definitely a hard-working person," said Salvatori. "He's dedicated, and loyal to the trustees. He's served us well."

As Director of Education, Baker has seen the board through some tough times. Especially considering recent freezes on funding from the Ministry of Education.

"It's frustrating for people who make forecasts and plans (for the board), and because of the government there aren't any allocations," said Salvatori. "We tell the government what we want, and we don't get it."

Unfair criticism

The recent criticism levelled at the Haliburton County Board of Education for its decision not to allow Sir Sandford Fleming College's Fine Arts summer program an extra week at the high school is unfair.

Since when has the school board's mandate been expanded to include finding adequate space for college programs? Trustees have their problems finding room for elementary students without worrying about the college as well.

No one disputes the tremendous contribution the School of Fine Arts makes to the community both economically and culturally.

The growth in popularity enjoyed by the program is a credit to the efforts of the college administration. But if the entire community benefits from the success of the school, the entire community should be involved in the search for adequate accommodation.

And remember Sir Sandford Fleming College is not a charity, it is a large post-secondary institution with resources and finances far exceeding the school board's. Surely they should take some responsibility to ensure their programs are adequately housed.

The high school served the School of Fine Arts well for many years but obviously the growth in popularity is resulting in enrolments that are straining the limited resources.

Even if the board did allow the extra week of classes, what's going to happen the next time the college needs more space and more time to handle its students?

Eventually the college is going to have to split the classes into two locations or find alternate accommodation, and it's obvious those options have to be explored now.

The board of education has dealt fairly with the college in offering space in other schools, and the decision not to extend classes at the high school was not made lightly.

Without leadership, Canada is out to lunch

There's an old fable called The Emperor's New Clothes, in which a fast-talking tailor manages to convince a mighty monarch to prance about in the altogether. The emperor thinks he's wearing the most magnificent outfit of cloth so wondrous and subtle only people of discriminating sensibilities can appreciate it.

His loyal subjects know it's worth their necks to see anything other than what their emperor wants them to see, so they, too, praise the tailor's masterpiece.

It takes a guileless little kid to point out the obvious. "Look! The Emperor has no clothes!" he

Black 'n White

by Arthur Black

shouts. And the whole house of cards comes tumbling down.

Canadians identify strongly with that fable because we're living through a parallel version of it. Except in our version it's not clothes that are missing. In the Canadian adaptation the little kid would stand up and shout "Look! The Empire has no brains!"

To put it bluntly, the country is rudderless. There's nobody at the helm. We should hang a giant OUT TO LUNCH sign on the hook of the Avalon Peninsula.

From what I can see on my TV, Ottawa has been pretty much reduced to a smoldering Beirut-like ruin, infested with roving outlaw gangs of Fat Cat Tories and Old Fart Senators.

Oh, we get a plethora of droning speeches about fastening our seatbelts prior to GST takeoff; about how this country is not in a recession. Well, not really.

Ontario Hydro commended for new spraying initiatives

Editor:

I wish to commend the Minden Area Ontario Hydro office for the environmental initiative regarding bush control along Hydro lines.

While acknowledging that trees and brush must be controlled under power lines, foliar herbicide use has long been identified as a health risk. Your decision to manually or mechanically cut selective incompatible species is a step to be applauded.

You have taken many knocks over your spraying programs for many years so you deserve a thank you for your new initiatives plus the informative letter to all residents.

Drug fees expensive

Editor:

Yesterday, my husband was released from a Peterboro hospital after minor surgery. We stopped at Zeller's Mall in Lindsay on the way home for lunch. I took a prescription into the drug store there before lunch as my husband needed it upon arriving home to Carnarvon.

The pharmacist said it would take five (5) minutes to fill the prescription. The cost of said prescription was $3.42 but with the exorbitant dispensing fee of $9.29, the total cost was $12.71, for 30 capsules of Amoxicillin.

I can count to 30 and type a form in five minutes but I don't get paid $111.48 an hour for my work — I get paid $5.40 per hour.

I should have come back to Minden where I paid a dispensing fee of $6.96 the week before at the I.D.A. We who do not have a drug plan are being "royally screwed". How long can we working poor exist in a society such as this? And how come all dispensing fees are not alike?

Yvonne M. Penney,
Carnarvon.

Wordy weather trends

Editor:

Is there a government agent who dreams up tedious phrases to replace common four-letter words, such as "sanitary landfill site" to dump the simple "dump"?

The latest victim is "hail" which, after serving English speakers for 19 centuries, has suddenly become "ice pellets." In saying farewell to hail, we lose a useful verb. In future, it won't be hailing hail, y'know, it'll be ice pelleting ice pellets!

For Global TV's weather girl Susan Hay, a storm never ends: it always "comes to an end." Noon is "the noon hour" and overnight "the overnight period." I believe this trend to wordiness is a media plot to increase profit, since fewer reporters are needed to fill news space.

Hay has miles to go before equalling predecessor Peter Emerson who once said: "At this particular point in time a very heavy precipitation of the white stuff is blanketing the nation's capital." He meant to say: "It's snowing hard in Ottawa."

Environment Canada is a toothless Chihuahua

a recession per se. Well, not a really DEEP recession...

But folks, I fear these are merely recorded announcements.

I don't want to frighten anybody but I think this country is running on automatic pilot. There doesn't appear to be anyone in the cockpit.

We've all heard the radio and television ads about the federal government's "deep and abiding commitment" to the environment. Tell that to the consultants who tried to prepare report cards on environmental quality across the country. They finally had to give up. They found out that by and large, nobody's monitoring anything.

In short, nobody in the country's capital can say with any degree of certainty how good or bad Canada's doing in terms of forests, fish stocks, farmlands, wetlands or hazardous waste disposal.

Because nobody in Ottawa has bothered to keep track.

"I was flabbergasted, not only at the gaps, but at the lack of correlation across the country."

Who said that? Farley Mowat? Some Greenpeace activist/hippie? Nope — Peter Vivian, one of the would-be report card writers and corporate vice president of Bell Canada International.

Then, of course, there's the recently delivered Auditor-General's report which tells us that our ecological watchdog, Environment Canada, is more of a toothless Chihuahua; that the Canadian armed forces are standing on guard with shoddy, outdated equipment that would shame a Colombian drug lord; that Pearson Airport is a moldering ruin; that university kids who suck on the public coffers for student loans don't have to bother repaying them — Ottawa doesn't prosecute; that CSIS is double-crossing the RCMP and the Mounties are hamstringing Canada Customs and while those clowns slug it out at centre ice, Canadian drug smugglers are laughing all the way to their Swiss banks.

All of which begs the question: Who's in charge here?

No one, I fear. Where was the government during the Oka standoff? On vacation, apparently. And when it was over, the same absentee arbiters flatly refused to address the native grievances that led to it in the first place.

We're all paying nearly fifty percent more for every tank of gas. Has Ottawa lifted a finger to get Big Oil's greedy hand out of your back pocket? Not that I've heard.

The only finger Ottawa's lifted lately has been strictly reserved for you and me.
Centre finger. Right hand.

Resource opening

With a quick snip of a ribbon, the resource centre at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School was officially opened last Thursday. Here 1989-90 chairman Len Salvatori and Jack McFadden of the Ministry of Education hold the ribbon for Wendy Ladurantaye, who was chairman when the board of education approved the construction. Trustees were also treated to a tour of the library and new facilities at the high school by Principal Peter Forgrave.

Dysart tightens controls on municipal landfills

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Dysart council is enacting tighter controls on the municipality's land-fill sites.

The measures will try to address concerns about the dumping of garbage by residents and companies from outside the township.

Among the measures being considered are the re-implementation of the card system, a tipping fee for non-residents and a levy on tires.

At the last meeting of council, recycling committee chairman Brain Watts presented a recommendation that a four dollar fee be charged on every tire dumped at the Haliburton Village and West Guilford landfill sites.

Councillor Murray Fearrey asked Watts how the fee would be implemented and collected and Watts said there would have to be some control point set up at the landfill entrances.

"That means you have to have someone at the gate all the time," said Fearrey.

"We're coming to the point where we're going to have to man those gates all the time anyway," said Watts.

Councillor John Parish said he suspects that people from outside the county are dumping tires in local landfills. "If you add up all the tires going in there, everyone in the county must be changing their tires every two weeks," he said.

Before attempting to collect a tire levy, Fearrey suggested the municipality try to re-implement the identity card system.

Last year the township issued cards to all ratepayers to try and limit access to the landfills sites to residents of the municipality. The system fell apart however because lack of manpower made enforcement impossible.

Fearrey said the problem of garbage being brought into the township from outside requires some sort of control.

"Businesses from outside of Haliburton are dumping large amounts of garbage," he said. "We should either charge them for it or turn them around."

Watts agreed. "We have to implement it soon or we're not going to have any room left."

Councillor Dorothy Baker suggested that the township could set certain hours when tires could be dumped and man the gates during those times. But Parish said people would avoid the fee by disposing of their tires when the gates were unmanned.

Harcourt Councillor Lloyd Leadbeater brought up the possibility of people driving to one of the township's unmanned sites, such as Harcourt, Kenissis Lake or Haliburton Lake, if controls were imposed

That's Santa, sir

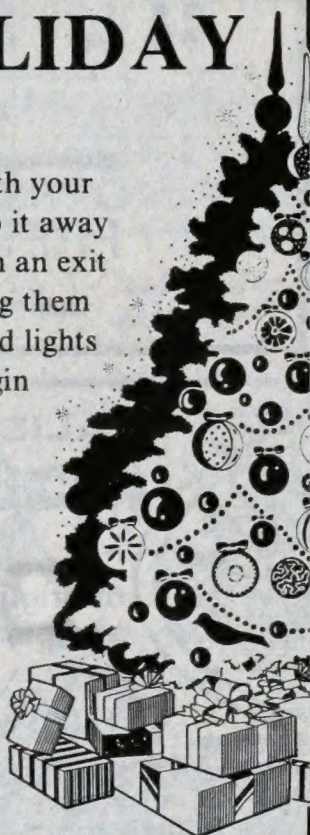

Cadet Corey Mosley received an early Christmas present last Thursday when Capt. Santa (Denis Allaire) Claus announced Mosley's promotion to Lance Corporal during the Corps' Christmas dinner.

Have A FIRE SAFE HOLIDAY

Enjoy the Holiday Season but be cautious with your Christmas Tree. Buy a fresh cut tree and keep it away from all heat sources. Don't place your tree in an exit way. Check all decorative lights before placing them on the tree and discard any frayed or damaged lights and cords. Once large amounts of needles begin to fall off, it's time to get rid of the tree. Never burn trees, decorations or wrapping paper in the fireplace; sparks can set your roof or home on fire.

These are just a few tips from the Minden Fire Department for a fire safe holiday.

Dysart dump woes

Card system to be re-instated

in Haliburton village and West Guilford.

"We have to start somewhere," said Watts. "Eventually we're going to end up with a man at every dump site."

Parish said charging a fee for tires and non-resident users would help the township pay for attendants at the other landfills.

If the municipality re-instates the card system, Leadbeater said there would have to be better enforcement.

Fearrey said there have been instances of businesses from outside Dysart bringing in six loads of garbage after being turned away from landfills in their own townships.

"It's not unusual for contractors to tear a cottage down, the whole thing goes in the landfill and they don't pay a cent," he said.

Baker suggested manning all the dumps at least during the peak summer season.

Watts requested deferring a decision until the committee had a chance to iron out some of the details but Parish recommended going ahead. "I'd rather see it go through," he said. "Let's get the ball rolling."

"There's no point making rules we're not going to enforce," said Leadbeater.

"I agree," said Watts. "That's why we got in trouble with the card system last time. It was done haphazardly."

Council eventually passed a resolution to re-issue landfill cards to residents and delay any other measures until the card system is up and running.

The system will be enforced at all township landfill sites from May 31 to Oct 31.

In an later interview, Watts said one of the reasons for the failure of the card system's first attempt, was a series of changes in the landfill's hours of operation. "Now we've got the hours down so they're amicable for everyone," he said.

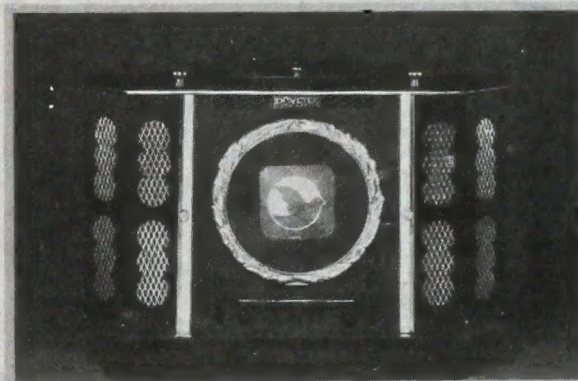

Once the card system is in place, Watts said Dysart will be in a position to charge fees for tires, non-resident users and commercial dumping.

Cards will be issued this spring with the tax bills and Watts said the system should be fully in place by the summer. In the meantime the Recycling Committee will starting finalizing some of the other controls.

Residents who live outside of Dysart but do most of their shopping in one of the villages will probably be able to pick up a card at the township office, allowing them to dump house-hold garbage free of charge, said Watts.

Man fined for keeping gun in unlocked truck

The following cases were heard by Judge George Inrig in provincial court in Minden last Wednesday. Jerry Woron acted as Crown attorney.

Firearm fine

John W. Howard pleaded guilty to careless use of a firearm in Cardiff Township on October 13.

The 65-year-old accused had left a Lakefield .22 calibre rifle and a full box of shells inside his unlocked truck that morning.

Police investigated, seized the rifle and left a note in the cab of the truck. That same day, Howard went to the OPP station and was charged.

"I had it under the seat," Howard explained of the gun. "You had to move the seat to get it."

"But anyone could have gotten it," said Crown attorney Jerry Woron.

"You should have made sure the doors were locked," added Judge George Inrig.

"I slipped up," said Howard. "All but one were locked."

Howard was fined $75.

Drinking and driving

David A. Pietrobon, 26, was fined $400 and lost his license for a year after pleading guilty to charges of impaired driving.

On October 31, Pietrobon's vehicle was spotted driving with no headlights around Highland Street and Maple Avenue in Dysart Township.

After police turned on their lights, Pietrobon pulled over and indicated he simply forgot to put his lights back on after leaving the store.

Two samples of breath were taken, one revealing 141 mg of alcohol in 100 ml of blood.

Pietrobon has no related record.

Jail sentence for thefts

Stephan Barry and John Cooper each received a jail sentence for stealing $900 worth of stereos, radios and other items.

On April 15, Barry stole a Sony radio in Minden.

In the courts

On October 14, the 18-year-old Haliburton high school student was helped by Cooper in stealing a number of items at Haliburton Marine, including a Maxima marine stereo, a Realistic radio, a fishfinder and a fire extinguisher.

Cooper, 24, drove Barry to and from a storage shed at the marina, said the Crown attorney.

All property was recovered by police, and Woron said restitution is not an issue aside from a $50 window that was smashed.

Barry was sentenced to 60 days in county jail concurrent on all counts of theft and followed by one year probation.

Cooper, who is married and attends Sir Sandford Fleming College in Peterborough, was sentenced to 30 days followed by one year probation.

Later, it was requested that both serve their sentences intermittently on weekends so Barry can attend school and Cooper can still receive unemployment benefits. Both are now on probation.

Sentence for tire slashing

Nicholas George, 24, was sentenced to 30 days in jail for willfully damaging a 1981 Pontiac by slashing the tire on its front driver's side.

The incident occurred outside a friend's apartment on Orde Street, where the victim lived with the friend's ex-girlfriend. The two women witnessed the incident, and George was subsequently charged.

George has a previous record, including break, enter and theft, and possession of stolen property. He has already made restitution.

Judge George Inrig also put George on one year probation.

Impaired charges dropped

A stay of prosecution was granted for Daniel W. Robbins, 32, who pleaded not guilty to a charge of driving with over 80 mg of alcohol in 100 ml of blood.

Robbins was charged on March 25, the information was sworn two days later, he was scheduled to appear in court on May 4, and last Wednesday's date was set for trial.

The lawyer for the defense said Robbins felt anxiety and pressure as an accused person while he waited eight months and 18 days for trial.

Accused have a right to trial within a reasonable period under the Charter of Rights. A Supreme Court decision in October outlined this period as six to eight months.

Woron argued that the hold-up was created because Minden's court only has one day a month for first appearances. "It's all proportionate."

He added that the charge is serious, and that the waiting period wasn't too far over the six-to-eight-month guideline. "It is so close, that justice would best be served if the matter is dealt with today."

Judge Inrig decided to stay the matter because almost nine months had passed since the information was sworn.

Insufficient evidence

Two counts of impaired driving against Norman F. Vanderhardt were dropped because of insufficient evidence.

The 33-year-old's lawyer, D. Kirby, requested that the matter be stayed because more than 10 months had passed since the accused was charged for the alleged occurrence on January 27.

Judge Inrig said the wait could not be blamed on administration of justice, because part of the delay was created when Vanderhardt requested adjournment to seek counsel and when counsel requested more time.

"Had he wanted a trial within a reasonable period, he could have set a date earlier... There is no indication of prejudice to the accused," Inrig said, ordering the trial to proceed.

However, the breathalyzer officer was off sick and unable to attend court. "I'm not prepared to proceed," said the Crown attorney.

Related charges against Wayne Robithan were adjourned until January 17 in Lindsay court. The defense agreed to abandon a Charter of Rights application for Robithan for that day.

Mischief charges dropped

An absolute discharge was granted to Robert N. Richard for five charges of mischief to property in December 1989 and one of break and enter in November 1989.

Defense lawyer Lorne Chester explained that Richard was involved in a serious motor vehicle accident, is bed-ridden and can't attend court.

Fine and probation for growing marijuana

John Gregory Hackson, 26, pleaded guilty to a charge of cultivating marijuana in his Harburn home.

Police executed a search warrant on November 21 and found 36 plants ranging in size from one to 20 inches, as well as hash oil, growing equipment, a set of scales and a hash pipe.

According to police, Hackson was cooperative and admitted the items were his. He also appeared to be "sincerely remorseful."

Hackson has a previous narcotics record in March 1981 when he was granted a conditional discharge for six months.

Federal Crown attorney Lorne Chester requested that Hackson's equipment be confiscated.

Judge Inrig gave Hackson a $800 fine and put him on one year's probation.

Fine for possession

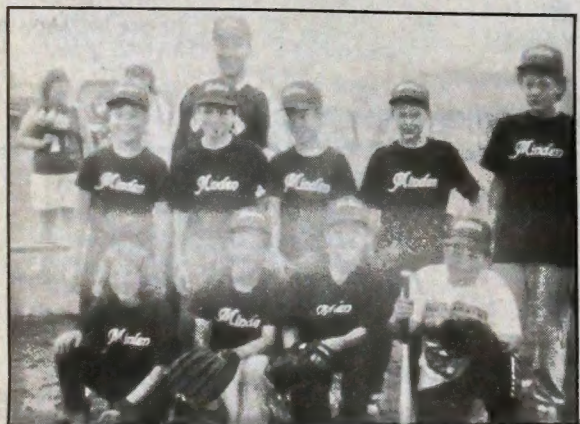

Donald James Ingham, 57, of Bancroft pleaded guilty to possessing cannabis resin.

On December 1, police stopped Ingham's car as part of a RIDE program, and noticed a package of rolling papers in the back seat. Two containers each containing a chunk of hash were found after a search was executed, and Ingham admitted they were his.

A conviction was registered and a $100 fine levied against Ingham, who has no previous record.

Two cases dismissed because of delays in system

Window broken

Stephen P. Cole, 31, pleaded guilty to mischief under $1,000 after breaking a plate glass window at Minden's Dominion Hotel in August of 1989.

Court was told Cole was ejected from the hotel because he was very intoxicated, and returned to get his cigarettes.

The owner "hit him with a pool cue in the stomach and face," said Cole's defense lawyer. Cole then rapped hard on the window, breaking it with his hand. He was hospitalized after the incident.

Court was told Cole is under medication and is receiving treatment for illness, and Judge Inrig granted an absolute discharge.

Wait for trial too long

A nine month wait for trial on a charge of refusing a screening sample for an Alert test is too long, decided Judge Inrig.

John Charles Little, 37, refused to offer a breath sample after being stopped by police in Dysart on February 24. His lawyer, Brian Ward, maintained that Little's rights were infringed because he waited too long for trial for an uncomplicated case.

Judge Inrig decided to stay the proceedings.

Drunken disturbance

A charge against Leslie McKnight for causing a disturbance while being drunk was dismissed because of an excessive time delay.

McKnight, 59, was also charged with breach of probation for failing to comply to keep the peace during the incident, alleged to have occurred in Minden on February 10.

"This is not a particularly complex case at all, yet it was adjourned quite a bit," said defense attorney Brian Ward. "The charge is reasonably insignificant in the overall scheme of things... There was very little delay on the part of Mr. McKnight."

Judge Inrig agreed to dismiss the matter.

Wife assault

A 38-year-old man pleaded guilty to assaulting his wife and received a $350 fine.

On October 29, the accused arrived at his home intoxicated and proceeded to poke his wife in the back with his finger and yell at her.

The woman was thrown to the floor, and the couple's two children entered the room to pull their father off of her. She escaped, and drove to another house to phone police.

When the police arrived, the accused yelled that he had a gun and then smashed a window. He was later treated at Minden

Hospital for cuts to his hand.

The man has no related record, but was convicted of impaired driving last March.

Crown attorney Woron asked the man if he has a drinking problem.

"No I don't," he said. "It was a bad day."

Woron disputed this statement, and suggested that the man needs counselling.

"There were no injuries, but there could have been. It's apparent the accused has a drinking problem and should do something about it before he hurts himself or somebody else."

Lawyer didn't turn up

Jennie W. Sorensen, 26, was defended by duty counsel after her lawyer failed to appear when she was up for impaired driving charges.

Sorensen said she'd already paid her lawyer, Daniel Baker of Bobcaygeon, but he didn't show up to defend her last Wednesday.

Brian Ward agreed to take over, and successfully managed to have the March 25 charges stayed because of unreasonable delay.

The judge also offered Sorensen some advice on how to deal with her lawyer. "You're entitled to your money back," said Inrig. "He should be reported to the law society."

Man charged for threatening witness

Attempt Obstruct Justice

William Robinson, 46, of R.R. 1 Brooklyn has been charged with attempting to obstruct the course of justice, after it was found he was trying to influence a witness who is involved in another charge against Robinson of Assault causing bodily harm. Robinson was arrested and held for a bail hearing where he was released on terms.

Next court — January 4.

Break, Enter and Theft

Ronald James Vieau, 20, and Kathleen Anne Carnochan, 27, both of the Oshawa area were arrested over the weekend for break, enter and theft and possession of a stolen auto, after police were alerted to the two being in the area of closed cottages. One cottage was found to have been broken into. The car they were using was stolen from the Durham Region area. Investigation into other thefts is ongoing. Both were released from custody at a bail hearing held in Lindsay Monday, December 10.

Reassessment evens tax burden

by Susan Grober

To help clear up inequitable tax distribution caused by uneven property assessments, county council reviewed a reassessment study provided by the Ministry of Revenue at last Wednesday's meeting.

In July 1987, the county requested a property tax re-evaluation to ensure that every property of comparable market value will be assessed on a similar basis.

Under such a program, all residential, farm, commercial and industrial properties of comparable market value will pay the same county and school taxes regardless of location within the county.

Jack Lettner, Assistant Deputy Minister of Revenue, presented a report on how county-wide assessment at full market value will affect Haliburton County.

According to the report, assessments are unfair if homes of comparable market value are paying different amounts of taxes. At present, each municipality in the county is individually assessed.

To illustrate, Lettner gave a sample of actual residential sales in 1988 and their 1990 taxes. The county and school tax burden varies between each municipality because of the varying methods used to assess each property.

For example, a home sold at $79,500 in Cardiff can be subject to $29 county tax and $174 school tax. Meanwhile, a similarly priced $75,000 home in Sherbourne faces $102 county tax and $400 school tax.

These and other tax inequities can be corrected by a Section 63 reassessment program and a Section 70 full market value program, said Lettner.

The Section 63 program was introduced in 1978 to correct assessment inequities within property classes in a municipality to ensure that each class bears the same proportion of the total tax burden following the reassessment.

After a Section 63 reassessment, certain property owners within a class who have been paying more than their fair share will have both their assessments and property taxes reduced.

Others who have been underassessed will face tax increases, and those who've been properly assessed won't see a change.

The Section 70 program is the full market value reassessment, and is available on a voluntary basis to municipalities. To date, 170 municipalities in the province use this program, said Lettner.

Presently, all 10 municipalities in Haliburton have been reassessed under Section 63. And four municipalities (Glamorgan, Monmouth, Cardiff and Bicroft) have been reassessed for a second time, with only Bicroft being assessed at full market value.

In addition, the ministry also offers a county-wide assessment at full market value program on a voluntary basis. This program has been implemented in the counties of Huron and Prince Edward.

Through this program, the ministry provides county and local councils with a preview of the results of the county-wide assessment at full market value before councils decide on implementation.

Also, all property valuations are established to capture trends in the market, rather than merely reflect the sale prices at a particular moment.

Municipalities are currently being reassessed at a 1988 market value which is tempered with other years (1987 and

Minden council lends support to Sled Dog Derby

Minden council is again lending its support to the Minden Sled Dog Derby.

Race committee chairman Val Lougheed attended last Thursday's meeting to bring councillors up to date on race preparations and request the township's support.

This year's derby is scheduled for January 12 and 13, and Lougheed said the race sponsors, Martins Pet Foods, are providing $42,000 in funding including a purse of $25,100.

Derby organizers have already received 20 entry applications and are again setting a limit at 120 participants.

Lougheed said the committee has been trying to attract teams from Europe and expect that in the next three or four years the Minden race will be hosting a European contingent.

Reeve Ray Moore asked Lougheed if the race committee has made any arrangements to re-route the race once the Village Green is no longer available for race starts.

Lougheed said the committee has spoken with Village Green owner Gary Thurston about when he might be building on the lot. She said the organizers want to try and keep the start of the race on Minden's Main Street.

"If it goes to the arena we'll lose a lot of the support from local businesses," said Lougheed. "It's not often they get 10,000 standing on the street outside their stores."

Lougheed said the committee is discussing various ways of organizing the race to accommodate a downtown start when Thurston builds on the Village Green.

Lougheed said the committee is enthusiastic about the support the community has shown for the event.

"It's really captured the heart of everyone in the community," she said. "We've had no negative feedback, just requests to help."

For the 1991 event, Lougheed said a Pet Control Officer will be designated to try and ensure that dogs brought to the race by spectators don't interfere with the sled dogs.

Andrea Pawluch skated in the Preliminary Ladies "B" Freeski and Elements. She placed 3rd in her freeski flight, just missing out on going on to the finals. In the elements part of Andrea's skate, she placed 3rd in her flight and 4th in the final.

In the Junior Bronze Ladies "B" Freeski Event,

Janene Garbutt placed 3rd and Kristi Barkwell placed 7th in this which was a final. These two skaters also skated in the Junior Bronze Ladies "A" Elements final in which Janene placed 2nd and Kristi placed 6th.

Cori Barkwell skated in the Senior Bronze Ladies Freeski Event placing 2nd and the Senior Bronze Ladies "B" Element placing 1st. These events were finals.

This was a day full of skating and was quite enjoyable for those who attended.

Congratulations on your results!

Redmen improve record by winning two at home

Back-to-back home victories have beefed up the Redmen record and put the hockey team back on track. The team defeated Adam Scott Collegiate of Peterborough 6-2 in a game played last Monday and took Port Hope Wednesday night 4-1.

The two wins have helped to erase a dismal start to the season and given the Redmen an even win/loss ratio as the Christmas break approaches. It is obvious the team has started to gel and the various lines are starting to click. Credit for this success is shared by all players and coaches. The players, for their tight, disciplined play and the coaches for providing the leadership and direction.

That having been said,

Monday night's game was marred by a major donnybrook in the second period. Lack of intervention on the part of the officiating staff resulted in all five players on both teams mixing it up on the ice and finally being sent to the dressing room for the remainder of the game. Ten game mis-

Pee Wees beat Bobcaygeon

Bobcaygeon came to town to do battle with the host Minden squad last Tuesday night.

After their first encounter with Bobcaygeon, which ended in a 3 all tie, fans were uncertain which way this contest would go. That was until Marty Dettman got things rolling for Minden at 7:15 of the first period, when he took an Andrew Crego pass and slipped it behind the Bobcaygeon goalie.

The first period ended 1-0 for Minden and in the second period, Marty Dettman struck for a pretty goal at 6:39 on a pass from Dave Fitzell and Andrew Nesbitt. At 5:13 Todd Redgrave skated through the Bobcaygeon defence to deek the goalie and deposit the puck into the Bobcaygeon cage.

With 20 seconds left in the second period, Todd Redgrave spotted Chris Fitzell with a great pass, Chris made no mistake and had his first goal. The second period ended 4-0 for Minden.

Todd Redgrave scored again at 12:59 of the third to make it 5-0 on a Travis Willison pass.

Terry King, Minden's goalie, played great but was denied his shut out when Bobcaygeon scored their lone goal at 8:03 of the third, with the Monarchs playing a man short. Todd Redgrave finished out the scoring for his hat trick.

With 4:23 remaining in the game, Travis Willison picked up his second assist of the night.

Final score Minden 6, Bobcaygeon 1.

Minden Tri County Pee Wees have treated us to some fine hockey this season. They have a return engagement at 8 p.m. Friday, December 21st at the Bobcaygeon Arena. Come out and support your team.

Redmen pressure

The Adam Scott goalie is doubled over backward as he attempts to protect the net from a Redmen attack. The HHSS team found the mark seven times last Monday to add to their ever-increasing winning streak.

Novices shut-out Little Britain

Sunday, December 2, the Minden Re/Max O.M.H.A. Novices played host to Little Britain. This was a very low key game with Minden skating away with a 4-0 victory.

Saturday, December 8, they battled it out with Sunderland. Although Sunderland proved to be tougher competition, Minden came out on top 4-0. Strong defence from Billy Fountain, Matt Reid, Gaten Davis and Jarett Rowden earned goalie Mitch Johnson yet another shut-out.

Goal scorers for this game were Nick Kulas a hat-trick, 2 unassisted, 1 assisted by Adam Durkin; Gary Kernohan, 1 assisted by Danny Vanderlip.

Statistics to date: 7 wins; 1 tie; 1 loss.

Westside goal tender Terry Crowe steers a Times shot to the side during a Monday night Men's League Hockey game. The Times went on to win the contest 10-6 and maintain its hold on third place.

Home dominance broken

Oh, how the mighty have fallen.

Home Hardware seems to have lost the magic touch which guided the team to seven straight wins at the start of the season. Last Monday Home lost to Rockcliffe 6-4, dropping its second game in a row.

Home started the night on the right foot (or skate) as Barry Boice and Ted Vasey scored the only two goals of the first period.

But the second period was like another game altogether as Rockcliffe's Ron Perrin put the team on the scoreboard and Jeff Howe added two more to give the team a 3-2 lead.

Perrin scored again at the start of the third, followed by teammate Jason Stamp to increase the lead to 5-2. Howe rounded out the team's scoring, and a hat-trick, when he potted the team's sixth unanswered goal.

Home managed two more goals late in the third period, courtesy of Tom Miscio and Fraser Rogers, but it proved to be too little, too late as Rockcliffe secured the 6-4 victory.

In other action, Sid Stamp Fuels scored four goals in the third period to overcome a 5-2 deficit and beat Hartwick 6-5.

Doing all the scoring for Stamp were Brian Shaw and Craig Crowe with three apiece.

Scoring for Hartwick were Eldon Bull with two and Kevin Mills, Derrick Moore and Wayne Dickenson with singles.

The third game of the night saw The Times putting another notch in the win column when they beat Westside Jug City 10-6.

The Times took control of the game early, scoring two goals in the first period and adding five more in the second to go ahead 7-0.

Westside battled back and managed to score one goal in the second period and five more in the third, but The Times added three more of their own to hang on for the win.

Eight different Times' players hit the twine during the game. Lawrence Lougheed scored a hat-trick and Larry Sawyer, Andy McKenzie, Dave Crego, George Crofts, Doug Allison and Scott Nesbitt all had singles.

Scoring for Westside were Garry Harrison, Bart Hilhorst, Jeff Campbell, Steve Crowe and Derek Allison.

Parents should scrutinize videos for their children

Editor:

The viewing of videos as home entertainment has mushroomed during the last decade. If used as a supplement to various other family activities we recognize their potential value. We also recognize the great challenge in selecting movies appropriate for families to enjoy together; the violence, offensive language and sex in many of the films available today desensitize our children and offer very unsuitable role models. An abundance of research says that we ARE affected by what we watch!

Unfortunately, many children develop a distorted perception of the real world through an average diet of 5 - 6 hours daily of television/video. We commend those parents who scrutinize and limit their children's viewing and we encourage others to investigate the values being taught by these powerful influences.

Our second concern involves the display in some of our local video-rental outlets of video jackets with sexually explicit pictures. We feel it is harmful for these "restricted" movies which usually demean and exploit women to be placed on shelves at children's eye levels. Although we find these films offensive and degrading to both women and men, we realize it is presently legal to sell or rent them. We strongly urge owners/managers of local video outlets to examine their displays and make inaccessible to children those titles restricted for adult use.

1990 is an especially challenging time to be raising and teaching children.

Although it is difficult to protect children's innocence, if we value this enough we can make appropriate choices for them. People choosing a video from a local outlet should let the management know of their approval or disapproval of the content and display of the material. Businesses usually try to please customers ... if they are aware of their concerns.

On behalf of Haliburton County Women Teachers' Association,
Sharon Harrison,
President.

Redmen extend streak by winning two games at home

ducts, five a side, were assessed, leaving both teams with little depth on the bench.

The melee came in the middle of a Haliburton scoring blitz which saw the Redmen notch five in the second frame. The first of the goals came at 11:50 when Wyatt Nesbitt scored from Jamie Dollo. Just 16 seconds later Kyle Hewitt connected on a pass from John Vuksic and Ray Cook to give the Redmen a 2-1 edge - the visitors having scored in the first frame. Play was disrupted at 9:44 as the two lines squared off. However, despite the disruption in the game, the Redmen were able to maintain their momentum and notched number three at 8:28. Corbie Kent connected for the home team with Vuksic getting the assist. At 4:46 Vuksic scored from Hewitt and Shaun Perrin. An unassisted goal at 4:18 completed the second period scoring spree for the Redmen with Jason Billings finding a hole.

Kent scored the final goal of the game for the Redmen at 3:24 of the third period. Assist went to Billings and Vuksic. Adam Scott managed one more goal at the 41 second mark as the Redmen were short-handed for the final two minutes of play. Final score, 6-2.

In Wednesday's game, Billings once again led the attack with a pair of goals. Singles were scored by Dollo and Greg Stamp. Bill Smith was in net for the Redmen and did an excellent job holding the Port Hope squad to a single goal, scored late in the game. Shaun Perrin, Phillip Johnston and Ray Cook all turned in strong defensive games for the home team. The Redmen outshot Port Hope 46-15.

The Redmen have two games this week to round out the pre-Christmas season. Monday, the team travels to Lakefield while they are home Wednesday night against Norwood. Following the holidays, the action resumes January 8 when the team travels to Kenner and then on January 9 they play host to Lakefield at the Haliburton arena. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Come "HOME" for Christmas

Stanhope resident John Gerber was presented with the Most Honourable Order of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem last Wednesday by Minden OPP Staff Sergeant Bill Elliott. Gerber earned the award by saving the life of two-year-old Madeline Bierd on June 26, 1989. Madeline and her parents were staying at the Little Hawk Resort in Stanhope when she was discovered lying face down in the shallow water near the shore. She was not breathing. Gerber performed mouth to mouth resuscitation while Louisa Kooyman assisted with chest compressions. They continued their efforts until the child was breathing on her own. Kooyman will be receiving a similar award.

Board of Education turns down offer to sell three acres of school land

Considering its accommodation crunch, the Haliburton County Board of Education is not willing to sell three acres of Archie Stouffer Elementary School property.

At last Thursday's meeting, the board considered a request from the county's Family Housing Committee to sell the property, located at the north end with 325 feet of frontage on Bob Lake Road.

The committee is searching for a building lot for a 22-unit complex, and has a $150,000 budget, the board was told.

The requested property is on a flat portion at the end of the playing field.

Trustee Wally Bunn noted that a planned addition to the school will already take up a portion of the playing field. "I wouldn't go for it," he said.

"We already realize we're taking a large area of the play field," agreed Janet Donnery. "We shouldn't take any more."

Len Salvatori said the Minden property is invaluable to the board. "It's going to be a very important education complex."

Baker leaving in July

"Stuart has led us well in that direction, but to no avail." Still, "he has a knack to smooth things out when they get rocky," Salvatori said.

Baker told trustees he wants to retire before the board gets heavily involved in building two additions to schools in Minden and Haliburton.

Funding has been requested from the Ministry of Education, and the project probably won't be underway until three to five years down the road. But Baker said he doesn't want to wait until the end of the period before he retires.

"He said he hates to get into something partway and pull out," said Murdoch.

Baker said he has no immediate plans to leave the area after retiring, and is willing to work with the person who is hired as a replacement to teach them the ropes.

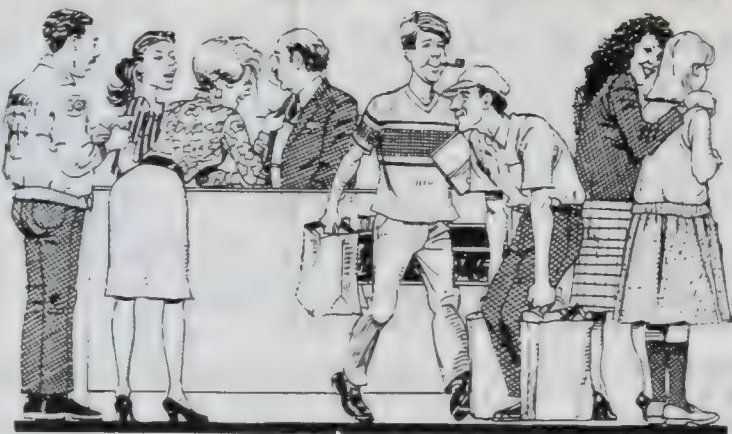

"He's been very good in offering his help after he leaves," said Murdoch. "As usual, we can't ask for more from Stuart."

The board's administrative staff were surprised by Baker's announcement. "Because he works for the board, he wanted to tell the board first," said Salvatori. "That's the kind of guy Stuart is."

"He supports the board well," he added. "It will be quite a change for us."

Because he was at a meeting in Kingston on Friday, Baker was unavailable for comment.

Properties of similar value will pay equal county taxes

(from page 10)

1989) to ensure that it's not at a high year, said Lettner.

By assessing all properties within the county at their full market value, assessment inequities are corrected.

By using uniform county and school mill rates, it also ensures that properties of similar value will pay the same county and school taxes.

According to the ministry, revising all assessments according to their 1988 market values will make the county's assessment base more current, thereby making property assessments easier to understand. This allows comparisons which indicate whether the assessments are fair.

Erosion of the county's tax base will be prevented because the need for appeals will be reduced. And fairer assessments will reduce the success rate of appeals, said Lettner.

Lettner presented council with the results of the ministry's detailed tax impact study for both Section 63 and Section 70, which includes the following three components:

By property class and municipality — a comparison of the tax increases and decreases resulting from the county-wide assessment at full market value;

By municipality, property class and ward — the tax increases and decreases in five per cent groupings; and

By municipality, ward and property class — a summary of the number of units that will have tax increases and tax decreases.

Understandably, county councillors were overwhelmed by the wealth of information presented.

"This is strictly a preliminary preview of the document, and there will be time to discuss it," assured Warden Carol Puffer. "This is just the beginning."

A meeting will be held this week for clerk-treasurers to go through the documents.

And the ministry will launch an information blitz to explain the new assessments to ratepayers.

A notice of property valuation shows the 1988 market value assessment, and includes a formula which allows ratepayers to estimate their taxes by calculating the assessed value with the mill rate.

Also, ratepayers can discuss their valuation with assessment staff prior to the return of the assessment roll at open house information sessions.

"We encourage people to attend open houses and compare their assessment with other homeowners," said Lettner. "That way they can tell if they are being fairly assessed."

Open houses will be held at the Minden Legion on Monday, Dec. 17 and at the Haliburton Legion on Tuesday, Dec. 18, both at 1:30 p.m.

Lettner said the program requires a 50 per cent vote of county council and 50 per cent votes from each of the municipalities. The program is to be implemented January 1, 1991.

Welfare costs still rising

by Susan Grober

The demand for social service assistance in Haliburton County is continuing to soar out of control and the province will be made aware of the problem.

Last month, 202 general welfare assistance cases were dealt with, compared to 127 cases in November 1989. Intake cases were 118 compared to 96, reported Social Services Committee member Bern Berry at last Wednesday's County Council meeting.

At the end of November, the county's share of the budget is over by $66,855. The provincial government's share is over budget by $353,649.66.

"Seventy per cent of county cases are new and have never required social assistance before," said Berry. "We're finding more families needing help, as opposed to singles."

Berry said it's realistic to predict that the county's share will be $85,000 to $95,000 over budget by year's end.

He also noted a recent NDP announcement of increases in social welfare assistance of 19 per cent basic needs and seven per cent shelter in 1991.

"This will put a further strain on our problem," said Berry. "We are hopeful that the new NDP government will look favourably at the county's deficit."

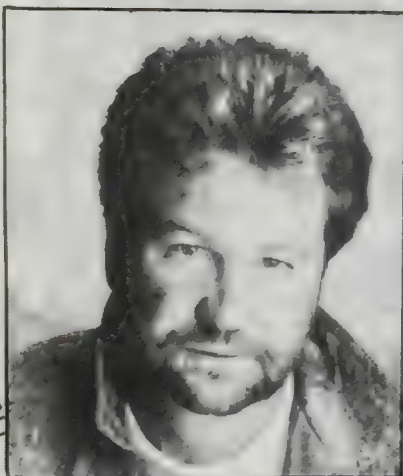

County council agreed with Berry's suggestion to send a letter to make MPP Dennis Drainville aware of the county's situation.

More townships will be involved in moth spray program

by Susan Grober

Eight townships will be introduced into a spray program to combat the voracious little caterpillar which has infested the area, reports the county's new Gypsy moth co-ordinator.

Len Munt began working last month as co-ordinator of both the county's Gypsy moth and waste management programs, and County Council heard his report on the Gypsy Moth during last Wednesday's meeting.

Munt oriented himself with the area by conducting egg mass surveys throughout the county. Joe Nickleson was hired as technician for the project and helped with the surveys. They are still in the process of searching for areas at risk, including the Mountain and Drag Lake areas.

Last spring, Lutterworth was the only township involved in the spray program, but the infestation has spread to other townships, read the report presented by Don Shortreed.

This spring, Anson, Hindon, Minden, Snowdon, Stanhope, Dysart, Dudley and Glamorgan will also be sprayed.

To date, there have been 400 applications, with the closing date being January 15, 1991. "I am now waiting for the last of the applications to come in," read Munt's report. "I am expecting Christmas-time to yield a large number of applications."

Munt has contacted all the cottage associations to remind them about the spray program and the application deadline, and has already received a good response.

An estimated 1,500 acres will be sprayed in the county next spring.

However, quite a few will be disappointed this spring about not getting sprayed, "but this will open a line of communication about the problem and set them up for future years," said Munt.

The co-ordinator's plans for the future include:

Spring — spraying the applied lands, and educating on smaller scale control that property owners can utilize (such as burlap banding, sticky tapes, destruction of egg masses);

Summer — educating cottagers coming into the area about the program, attending cottage association meetings and getting the word out to the county about the program and how to get more involved;

Fall — educating about transport of the insect and ways to prevent it, making sure the flow of applications come in on time, and doing a co-operative egg mass survey with the Ministry of Natural Resources to get a good indication of the population for 1992.

Learning fire safety is a resolution for the entire family

Have you decided on your New Year's resolution yet? What about something to benefit you and your family — something easy to do and inexpensive.

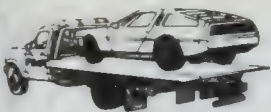

The Minden fire department suggests learning fire prevention and practising fire safety. To avoid fires, practise fire prevention — plan ahead: install and maintain smoke alarms on every level of your home, develop and practise an escape plan with your entire family, have regular fire drills and know how to use your portable fire extinguisher.

Many home fires and fatalities are avoidable if people practice good fire safety techniques. Make sure you know what to do if fire strikes! Have a happy and safe New Year!

Local skaters shine at Scugog Frolics

The Seventh Annual Scugog Frolics took place in Lindsay December 8th and 9th. This is a Can-skate/Configureskate Invitational Competition. The Minden Figure Skating Club had ten skaters show off their talents.

Jessica Berry was the first to skate in the Pre-Novice C ladies event and placed 2nd in flight and 6th in the over all final.

Krista Matysek skated in the Juvenile A ladies final bringing home the gold medal.

In the Juvenile C ladies event, Brandi Hewson placed 4th in her flight and Rachel Brown placed 2nd in her flight, went on to the finals, and placed 1st overall.

Melissa Hartwick skated in the Pre-Juvenile A ladies placing 5th in this final event.

In the Pre-Juvenile B

ladies event, Megan Hurstwood placed 5th in flight and Courtney Wells placed 4th in her flight.

Stacy Walker skated in the Novice C ladies event, placed 6th in her flight.

In the Introductory B ladies event Keri Hartwick placed 6th in her flight and Katrina Matysek placed 1st in her flight and 6th, in the finals.

This event starts the skaters at a young age in competitions. It is a real accomplishment for some of them to make it around this unfamiliar ice surface, along with a routine, trying not to fall and, of course, making sure Mom & Dad are watching. This is a lot to ask of these young skaters. The Minden Club is proud of your placings. "Congratulations" everyone, thanks to the coaches, David Hollows, Mary Donovan and Jane Symons for all their encouragement and instruction before this event.

Skugog Skaters

Price of parkland sold to Staانworth questioned

Corporation's offer on second property almost three times the amount paid to township

money for the construction of the supportive housing complex itself.

Moore said the offer on the Prince St. property fell through because the property is unsuitable for building. He said the corporation is still looking for a site for the family housing units.

Councillor Bob Sisson was absent the Nov. 8 council meeting when the sale of the parkland to Staانworth was approved. On Thursday he said he's opposed to selling park property to anyone.

Selling land to the county for the new county building was an exception, said Sisson, because the township was "desperate" to keep the county offices in the village.

Councillor Lewis Stevens voted in favour of the sale and said nothing has changed his mind. "I'm still very comfortable with it," he said.

"The prices for the two properties vary considerably," said Berry. "We should represent all the ratepayers of Anson, Hindon and Minden, not just some power group."

He also said that, although the park property is supposed to be for supportive housing and not family units, once Staانworth owns the property they can build whatever they want.

Moore objected to Berry's use of the term "power group" in reference to Staانworth. "These are volunteers that don't get a damn nickel," he said. "It's an insult that you think this is a power group." Berry's comment was derogatory to the 17 people on the Staانworth committee, said Moore.

Berry said that out of the entire discussion, Moore had picked up just that one phrase.

Councillor Mike Maher said that although it was just a courtesy that Staانworth forwards its minutes to council, it would have made the case against the sale stronger to have known about the offer on the Prince St. property.

Maher voted in favour of the sale and said he's not sure that knowing about the $145,000 offer would have altered his opinion.

Three local angels need space

I want to talk about angels for the next two weeks. There is really nothing extraordinary about them, really. However like most things in religion, they have been popularized beyond recognition.

What do you think when you hear that word "angel"? Boyfriend, girlfriend, lover? Most often we think of something winged, white alternately stern (it is a part of your good conscience) or insufferably cute (naked toddlers with chubby cheeks, trumpets and/or harps).

We speak of guardian angels. An old popular song sings forth the praise of "You are my special angel". Children are little angels when asleep or well behaved. Angels are usually pictured as little girls when small and blonde handsome men when big. Each culture has put in their own form of sexual and political bias into whatever they call an "angel". Whatever they are, angels are almost always associated with something good, pure and morally correct.

When the Scriptures speak of angels, they assume they exist. There is a necessity for the gap to be bridged between the world that is seen and the world unseen so — we have angels. And angels are messengers. God's courier service. As such they are morally neutral — they bring bad news and good news.

So one day God says to Gabriel: "Hey Gabe, I got a great idea. Let's have some fun with the humans. I want to show them what I'm like so I'll arrive like one of them — stop looking at me like that, I have not lost it — that means I have to be born. This is what I want you to do: There's this girl in Nazareth, Miriam. I want to give her this message.

Directions

by Edward Moll

"Miriam, I've got good news and bad news.

First the good news. You're pregnant.

Now the bad news. Joseph is not the father..."

So if angels are God's messengers, if they appear in the most unlikely places and say things we certainly don't expect, then we can, if we look carefully, find them almost anywhere. I know of at least three here in Minden. Their names are Doris, Jane and Bonnie at CHACE Place. They provide a space for many mothers and some fathers to regain some sanity and companionship in the middle of a whirling and lonely world. They provide hugs and muffins, crafts and parties for kids. They help parents discover that they, through their volunteer efforts, or for just being there, can be angels unawares.

That's the good news.

The bad news is that whenever God's messengers arrive they challenge the status quo, they disturb complacency, they put sand in our shoes to help us pay attention to the things God considers important. We ignore them or put them aside at our peril.

The angels at CHACE need a place come spring. They need your help, generosity, imagination and determination to find one. Who knows? You yourself may be an angel...

Time has come to reduce greenhouse gases

The time for foot dragging is over — we must begin to cut down on our output of greenhouse gases now.

On November 3, scientists from 130 countries concluded the technical part of the Second World Climate Conference in Geneva by declaring that global warming as a result of human activity has already begun and will accelerate in the coming years. They were referring to the carbon dioxide, nitrous acid, methane and CFCs generated by us that are accumulating in the upper atmosphere and acting to keep heat on the planet's surface.

The scientists at Geneva called on the world to begin working to reduce these emissions immediately.

Back in 1979 at the First World Climate Conference, experts had wondered whether human-induced global warming could happen. By 1988, delegates at an international meeting on climate in Toronto proposed a goal of reducing carbon dioxide emissions by 20 per cent below 1988 levels within 15 years to avoid extreme temperature increases.

A year later, at a meeting in Holland, the European Community favored a formal agreement to reduce emissions but were opposed by the U.S., Britain, Japan and the Soviet Union. The American delegation argued that the threat of global warming was still not certain, citing a report by the Washington-based Marshall Institute that claimed the risk was greatly exaggerated. None of the authors of that report attended this year's Geneva conference.

Stephen Schneider, a world renowned atmospheric scientist, told me the Bush administration seized on the report because it fit their economic ideology. Leaked documents revealed that Canada's Environment Ministry had promised to support the American position.

This year in Geneva, an Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) was unequivocal in its conclusion about the scientific basis for global warming. Bert Bolin, chairman of the panel told me his committee's findings "buried the Marshall Report for good."

The IPCC documented the increase in atmospheric content of human-produced greenhouse gases since the Industrial Revolution. They conclude with certainty that this "will enhance the greenhouse effect, resulting on average in an additional warming of the Earth's surface."

The IPCC report states "with confidence" that the relative effect of different gases can be calculated and that carbon dioxide (mainly from burning fossil fuels) has been responsible for over half the enhanced greenhouse effect and will likely remain so in the future.

Since atmospheric levels of long-lived gases adjust slowly over time, "continued emissions ... at present rates would commit us to increased concentrations for centuries ahead. The longer emissions continue to increase at present day rates,

Reflections

by David Suzuki

the greater reductions would have to be for concentrations to stabilize at a given level."

In other words, it's far easier, cheaper and faster to act now than waiting until later when even more gases have been added to the upper atmosphere.

The IPCC report asserts that "global mean surface air temperature has increased by 0.3 degrees C to 0.6 degrees C over the last 100 years with the five global-average warmest years being in the 1980s." In September, British climatologist, P.D. Jones announced that "the average temperature for the current year should easily make it the warmest year yet recorded."

Scientists are a cautious lot, so their conclusions reached after careful consideration, must not be ignored.

The IPCC suggests that CO₂, nitrous oxide and CFCs have to be cut by "over 60 per cent to stabilize their concentrations at today's levels." That won't be easy, but we haven't even begun to try.

Several studies, including a government-commissioned Canadian document have shown there are huge environmental and economic benefits from cutting back on emissions.

In Geneva, Thomas Johansson of Sweden reported how the U.S. could cut CO₂ emissions by 20 per cent by the year 2000 and save a whopping $60 billion a year. He found that countries as diverse as Sweden and India could also reap enormous benefits from energy conservation.

Around the world, countries are wasting energy and in the process, adding greenhouse gases unnecessarily to the atmosphere.

Of all industrialized countries in the world, Canada has the poorest per capita record. With only 0.4 per cent of the world's population, Canada generates two per cent of all greenhouse gases. Environment Minister Robert de Cotret's refusal on November 8 to commit Canada to an immediate program of reducing our contribution is reprehensible. With near unanimity of expert opinion, Canadians have no excuses to delay immediate action.

If greenhouses gases aren't brought into equilibrium, the consequences will be catastrophic as I'll discuss next week.

ACROSS FROM LINDSAY TOWN HALL

The fifth plastic bag recycling depot at Minden's Archie Stouffer Elementary School last Friday yielded much more than a few handfulls, as students Matthew Heffer and Rob Camelon can attest. The pair ran the depot with the help of Murray Clarke, seen in the background, who says over two tonnes of plastic has been diverted from the county's dumps since this project began. This includes collection at a Haliburton depot run by Virginia Muenzel and artist Wendy Bateman, who uses the more colourful bags in her weaving. Excluding bags which can be reused by caretaking staff, generally 200 pounds worth are collected on average per depot. When you consider how little a bag weighs, that's a lot of plastic.

Don't over-do the turkey

Be alert when cooking that holiday feast! The Minden fire department offers these fire prevention and safety tips for the kitchen:

1. If a stove fire starts, place a tight-fitting lid over the pan to smother the flames, then turn off the burner.
2. Keep all debris and combustible items, such as paper towels, dish towels and paper bags, away from the stove.

3. Keep pot handles turned in so they can't be accidentally knocked off the stove.

4. Keep young children away from the stove while preparing meals.

5. In microwave cooking, always open the wrap used in cooking away from you and protect your hands so steam does not burn you.

6. Since the inside of the food cooks faster than the outside in a microwave, be careful when serving.

Prevention is the key to a happy holiday season!

Play's theme could easily reflect a slice of Haliburton County life

by Susan Wilson

We all know a woman like Maureen. Her whole life revolves around the house and especially around the kitchen. So much so that no one else is allowed to lift a finger within ten feet of her stove or sink. So much so that she takes command in the kitchen of any younger woman less familiar with the domestic arts. The sad flip side of this coin is that her whole identity is bound up in the house and in the kitchen. But no one values her work there and so neither does she. And because they don't value her work, they don't value her. So she takes whatever life — and her husband — hand her.

Most of us probably know a man like Jack too. He believes that all the important work in the family (in this case, on the farm) belongs to him. Consequently, all the important decisions belong to him too. He doesn't hear other people's opinions — especially his wife's — and if he does hear, he doesn't believe they know what they're talking about. Even if they're talking about their own feelings.

This conflict is the premise of Anne Chislett's play, The Tomorrow Box. Setting her story in the present day in the fictional Ontario village of Bedford (standing in for the town of Blyth, home of the theatre festival where it was first produced), Chislett uses a light comedic touch to explore and unveil some important insights about human relationships.

Jack has sold the farm to his son Joe and daughter-in-law Alice and bought a house in Florida. Joe and Alice will take over the farm as soon as the harvest is in, and Jack and Maureen will move to Florida. But Jack hasn't told Maureen any of this — it's going to be a surprise for her birthday.

When Maureen accidentally learns about the sale and Jack's plans to move them both to Florida, she slowly begins to speak her mind. The thought of being torn away from the house that, after 40 years of marriage, she has finally finished decorating to her own taste, and from her friends, and from her newly won office as President of the Women's Institute — this terrible prospect slowly breaks down even her stoic forbearance.

Maureen refuses to move to Florida, Jack demands and gets a divorce, Maureen demands and gets a settlement, the sale goes through, Jack leaves for a life of deep-sea fishing in Florida, and Maureen heads off to London to find a job. In the final scene, however, there is a reconciliation and happy endings all around.

The Tomorrow Box was written for the Blyth Festival in 1979 and enjoyed a recent production by the Highlands Little Theatre. Plays written for the Blyth Festival customarily deal with situations that are part and parcel of that rural, agricultural community 20 kilometres east of Goderich. It's easy to imagine this story unfolding in Haliburton too.

The Highlands Little Theatre put on four performances of The Tomorrow Box on November 30th and December 1st, 7th, and 8th in the Haliburton Highlands High School under the direction of Glen Carter. Taken as a whole, it made for an enjoyable evening. The direction was simple and straightforward within the confines of a rather cramped set (but then the inside of a trailer is usually cramped). Static moments, the hallmark of amateur theatre, were fairly few.

The level of acting varied in quality, both from one actor to another and within each actor's performance. The odd thing was that almost every performer's ability varied depending on whom he or she was playing against. Joe (Douglas Brohm), for instance, was more convincing when playing opposite his mother Maureen (Irene Lubowitz) and his father Jack (Lloyd Johnson) than when he was talking with his wife Alice (Kim Coulter) or Alice's lawyer sister Lisa (Shelley Van Nood). Indeed, Brohm was quite credible as a farmer's son. But Joe is also a former associate professor of agriculture — with tenure! — and Brohm did not bring an adequate level of sophistication to this part of his character. He was also not believable as a man who had been living with Alice for two years before their recent marriage.

Similarly, Coulter (in her first stage appearance) seemed more comfortable playing against Van Nood than against Brohm. Van Nood brought an appropriately efficient and business-like manner to her role as the young, ambitious Toronto lawyer. She was also the most relaxed among the cast members at adding little touches of naturalism: waving the flies away from her face or wiping a bit of beer from the corner of her mouth.

Like Coulter, the actors playing the older couple were also newcomers to the stage and acquitted themselves very well. Johnson reports that it's been over four decades since he last stood in the limelight. He was delightfully rotten and pulled no punches in giving full rein to Jack's bloody-minded chauvinism.

Lubowitz has done a great deal of backstage work but had never been "on the boards" before. On the conviction of her performance rests the credibility of the whole play. Lubowitz handled Maureen's vacillations convincingly, as well as her growing ability to stand up for herself and to understand her own strengths and rights.

The Tomorrow Box, as a play, is not without its flaws. The evolution in little more than eight months of Jack from a self-centred autocrat into a man who holds doors and makes tea for his wife and of Maureen into the business manager of a burgeoning photography store is a tad incredible. So much personal growth in so little time!

The Highlands Little Theatre production was not without its flaws either, but none of them was serious. Producer Heather Scully and her colleagues are to be commended for mounting an entertaining play so appropriate to the local community. Emmerson Lumber of Haliburton is to be commended for sponsoring the production.

Justice delayed...justice denied

The courts are dismissing more charges because of lengthy pre-trial delays

by Susan Grober

Judges, lawyers, police officers and victims. Everyone is feeling the frustration.

Over 5,800 criminal charges have been thrown out after a Supreme Court ruling in October which criticised the delay in Ontario courts, according to a report by the attorney-general's office.

Trial court judges have either stayed or dismissed these charges, which include impaired driving, sexual assault, theft and possession, and drug possession and trafficking. Another 372 charges were voluntarily withdrawn by the Crown during the period from Oct. 22 to Nov. 30.

Many decisions by judges to stay or dismiss charges have been objected to by the Crown, and will be appealed.

But the fact that judges have followed the Supreme Court's ruling on unreasonable delay calls attention to a pressing need for change to reduce the backlog in many districts, including our own.

Judge George Inrig presides at provincial court in Minden each week. And he has stayed and dismissed his fair share of charges since the Supreme Court ruling.

"The problem, of course, is that this court has been inundated with charges. Therefore we need more court time, and more judges," he says.

Usually, Judge Inrig only hears cases in Minden on Wednesdays. First appearance dates are held only once a month, on the first Friday.

"We must have more first appearance dates to deal with this problem," says Inrig.

Crown attorney Jerry Woron agrees. "We're going to have to get them (the accused) in court sooner, and get the lawyers off their laurels."

The provincial government has announced it has $40 million funding to appoint another 27 provincial judges, and more court staff, over the next two years. But it's not yet certain how this judicial region will be affected.

Meanwhile, police officers continue to lay charges. And while the judicial process is beyond the control of the police, that doesn't mean they aren't affected.

"It's certainly frustrating for the officers to prepare a case and have the matter not heard," says Sgt. Art Goard of the Minden OPP.

"In Minden, there have been cases where the judge has been unable to attend because of illness and there hasn't been anyone available to fill in," he says. "That helps to create a backlog."

Because the area is growing, the workload for local police has increased steadily in recent years. As police lay more charges, the court becomes more inundated.

"This problem didn't just happen in one day — it's a matter of a workload increase and it's time to adjust," says Sgt. Goard, who believes the increased funding is bound to have an effect. "I think the right steps are being taken."

Until that time, police officers must now deal with watching the judge stay and dismiss charges ranging from impaired driving to assault causing bodily harm because the accused waited between six to eight months or longer for trial.

"I think that any charges laid this summer shouldn't be exposed to these same problems," Sgt. Goard says.

Police officers aren't the only ones feeling the frustration. "I think from the victim's point of view, it has to be worse," he says.

Helen Collum, vice-president of PRIDE (People to Reduce Impaired Driving Everywhere), is quick to agree.

"The people we help are victims who have suffered either bodily harm or a death in the family at the hands of a drunk driver," says Collum. "We've lost only one case so far."

In Brampton, charges were dropped against a man alleged to have hit a couple's car from behind while driving drunk, causing them numerous injuries.

"To have those charges dropped and have the accused leave the courtroom literally laughing in his victims' faces is a further slap in the face or kick in the teeth from the justice system," says Collum.

"It's bad enough to be a victim, but this decision adds further insult to the injury and the damage that's already been done."

Members of PRIDE are nervously keeping track of what types of charges will be stayed or dismissed. "We're very worried, and very much on edge," says Collum.

And while there is great hoopla about the rights of the accused, the organization is working toward a Victim's Bill of Rights. "There's too much emphasis put on the offender's side," she says. "Within the next few years, we hope to have obtained legislation that victims must be informed of every step taken in court."

The Supreme Court Ruling, known as the Askov decision, the Supreme Court upheld a 1986 decision by a district court judge in Peel to drop extortion charges against four men because they had faced a 34-month delay in being brought to trial.

In accordance with the Charter right to trial within a reasonable time, the court ruled that lengthy pre-trial delays caused by problems in the court system violated the rights of the accused parties, Elijah Askov, Ralph Hussey, Samuel Gugliotta and Edward Melo.

Supreme Court Justice Peter Cory described Peel's judicial system, with an estimated backlog of 20,000 untried cases, as "the worst not only in Canada but anywhere north of the Rio Grande."

He also suggested that six to eight months is the

"outside limit" of a reasonable waiting period between committal for trial and trial, except in complex cases or cases where the accused has contributed to the delay or waived his rights.

Although the ruling was directed at a single case, lower courts across the country have been abiding by the decision.

Decisions by provincial judges to dismiss charges have been called into question by Judge Richard Trainor of the Ontario Court's higher general division level, who ruled that the Supreme Court's decision doesn't apply to the provincial division.

"All we can do is hope the judges will heed this," says Collum.

And the new government has already responded to the pressure for more funding.

Attorney General Howard Hampton has announced his government will spend as much effort and money as necessary to comply with the guidelines in the Askov decision.

And his ministry has issued a list of 11 minor charges which Crown attorneys can withdraw if they feel a judge is likely to dismiss the charges on the grounds of unreasonable delay. These charges range from automobile joyriding to fraud to theft under $1,000.

Crown attorneys don't have the freedom to withdraw more serious charges. But defense lawyers can ask judges to dismiss any type of charge because the accused person has not been tried within a reasonable period of time.

Over the past decade, Ontario's court system has been plagued by systemic delay, caused by insufficient numbers of judges, Crown attorneys and courtrooms, inefficient management, and lack of co-operation amongst prosecutors, defense counsel and judges.

Hopefully, a light at the end of the tunnel will soon be in sight.

We bid a sad farewell to another brilliant shining star, soprano Eleanor Steber who died this past month after a fabulous career. She was seventy-six and delighted fans for decades at the Metropolitan Opera. She was a singer who excelled in the works of Mozart and Verdi and if another Prima Donna was indisposed, one could always count on Eleanor to fill in. She was a beautiful, statuesque woman, with a silvery voice tinged with a special vibrato. I lived not too far from her on Long Island for years and she was always involved in some musical undertaking. All she had to do was open that beautiful mouth and let the superb notes flow. She believed in herself and proved it by being one of our finest artists. Farewell Eleanor — the world is a sadder place because of your demise, and you will be sorely missed.

If you are a music lover and are stymied for a suitable gift for a friend who also loves music, I suggest you buy the tape of the concert given in Rome, starring Placido Domingo, Jose Carreras and Luciano Pavarotti (the three greatest tenors in the world) conducted by Zubin Mehta who conducted two hundred musicians in the famous Baths of Caracalla. It is a marvellous performance and I heartily recommend it.

"Built on Performance....Backed by Professionals"

Christmas greetings from Staannworth residents

"When Christmas comes with all its joy
And merry bells ring out,
There are always certain people

That we like to think about.

The very special ones we know

Who mean so much all year,

Are the first we wish to remember

When Christmas time is here.

Merry Christmas to all."
...This verse applies so appropriately to the many community services made available to us, as Seniors, in our Apartments. We do sincerely appreciate you and thank you. "In the noisy confusion of life, it is still a beautiful world." May God bless you all.

Our Residents' Club meetings for November and December were well attended and busy with Pres. Fred Knight officiating. Due to illness, our Secty. Vivien A. resigned and Maxine Cross was elected to take on Secty. for the term. We thank our Directors for their donation to our Christmas. Jean Cowen asked anyone who would be alone for Christmas to join with her and Harry in celebrating dinner in the Lounge. (What a kind Christmas thought!)

A very jolly Christmas party was enjoyed by our residents. We were entertained by Bill Payne and his fellow Grandfathers. After listening to many selections on the guitars, and violin, and songs, Santa made his appearance and helped Barbara S., our Apts. Secty, with distributing gifts. Goodies and punch were made available and everyone agreed we had a very enjoyable evening with our Directors and our prominent lawyer, Don Finn. (Do you suppose Barbara believes in our Santa?)

and Henry H. Lillian is at present in hospital in Peterborough. We wish her a speedy recovery.

Happiness and Good Health always to our Birthday folks, -namely- Maxine Cross, Bill Donnelly, Mel Foster, Vivien Anderson, Mabel Trodd and Margaret Horsley.

A few of our residents enjoyed the Bazaars and Teas held at the Hyland

Crest, United Church, and St. Anthony's Church. The displays were very pretty, and creative; the teas most appetizing. We look forward to them.

Yes, we look forward to our Dart and Euchre games. We are pleased to have Mary and Alex Stevenson, Ruby and Jerry Schmidt, Jessie Preston, and Hugh Allen from Staannworth Terrace to enjoy playing euchre with us.

I don't know if we ever will get a cure for poverty. However, the way taxes and prices are going up we have a sure cure for wealth.

Merry Christmas to all and a very Happy New Year. — M.H.

Busy months for Minden Rotary

The month of November and so far December, have been active in the life of the Minden Rotary Club. For reasons I won't go into here, I missed the November report and am a bit late with December, so I'll try to bring you up to date with just a few of the highlights.

Probably best described as everyone's friend and helper, Al Stott was named as Rotary's citizen of the year for 1990. Al and his wife Helen attended our November 26th meeting for the presentation of the award. Congratulations Al and we wish you both many more years of happiness.

Jarett Gentle, the "eternal optimist" attended a meeting on Monday night to demonstrate the "lap top" computer which the club donated to him. As I'm sure you read in his story in last weeks edition of The Times, the computer will assist him in his ongoing recovery from the injuries he sustained in a car accident over a year ago. Jarett's determination and cheerfulness are inspiring to see and we wish him the very best.

Anette, our student visitor from Denmark, is currently residing with Don, Jane and Melissa Joynt and will be spending her Canadian Christmas with them. Other news on the student exchange program is the selection of Dustin Davis as our next outgoing student. Dustin hopes to visit France, Belgium or Austria, but wherever he goes, I'm sure he will enjoy it and represent us well.

Fifty turkeys and 189 bingo players turned out for the annual Christmas Bingo on December 4th. It was an enjoyable evening for all (except maybe the turkeys) and Cec, Jack and the rest of the "Bingo Crew" are to be congratulated. This is also a good opportunity for me, on behalf of the Rotary Club, to thank all you bingo players for your support through 1990. It is your help that makes it possible for us to do so much for the community.

First Bingo night in 1991 will be January 8 — same time, same place. Come on out and have fun.

This will be my last column of the year so as a final thought I would like to wish everyone a very happy holiday season and all the best in '91. See you next year.

Kids' Korner

Hi Kids!
Here is another puzzle
for you with a word list.
Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down, forward, backward and diagonally.

They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters.
Circle the words in the diagram and cross it off the list.

It's as easy as that. Have fun!

Gas price increases tied to Middle East crisis

Since Iraq's August 2nd invasion of Kuwait, Canadians have seen their gas bills rise as a result of rising costs for crude oil on world markets.

While Canadians understand why prices have risen, many wonder what the Canadian Government can and should do about the situation.

Canadians have the right to expect fair treatment in the marketplace, and they expect the Government of Canada to protect them through enforcement of laws pertaining to health, safety, weights and measures and anti-competitive behaviour.

However, the federal government does not have jurisdiction — in non-emergency situations — to regulate retail prices for gasoline, heating fuel or other petroleum products, as a government we don't believe we should have the jurisdiction. We believe competitive markets keep prices in check.

Having said that, in the event of an emergency, the Government of Canada does have the right to regulate prices. In the meantime, Energy, Mines and Resources (EMR) will closely monitor supply and demand in Canada and keep a watchful eye on the world scene.

People who want more information on this topic

Report from Ottawa

With Bill Scott, MP

can telephone EMR's toll-free line. The number is 1-800-267-5166.

One major concern being expressed recently concerns the possibility that Canadian consumers are being gouged by the oil companies.

Looking at the rise in the crude prices and at the parallel rise in gasoline prices, there is no reason to suspect shady corporate behaviour. Indeed, prices in Canada have risen by less than prices in most other industrialized nations and remain at levels a good deal lower than our industrial competitors.

Again, the federal government and the Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs maintain a close watch on the domestic picture.

A smoke alarm is a caring gift

Looking for that special gift for family and friends? What better way to show you care than to give a smoke alarm or fire extinguisher. Few people buy safety gifts for themselves.

According to the Minden fire department, battery-operated smoke alarms are life savers. Look for the U.L.C. label which assures the smoke alarm meets safety standards. Installation is easy — they only take two screws and a screwdriver. You might even want to include installation as part of your gift. Ideally, every level of your home should have a smoke alarm.

In fire extinguishers, a multi-purpose dry chemical type is a wise choice. This type can handle most SMALL fires. Make sure you look for the U.L.C.

label. Ensure the fire extinguisher is kept in an accessible place and the owner knows how to use it properly. Every home, car, boat, camper and trailer should have a fire extinguisher.

Curlers serve tea for Hyland Crest seniors

Happy shopping for Christmas folks.

Last Thursday was Tea Party as usual. The ladies of Minden Curling Club provided the tea and served it. They were Margaret Harrison, Shirley Colliss, and Katie Parker. It was served from the tuck shop to the dining room and was delicious. The residents thank them heartily.

In the evening Marg Prentice was with us and called the bingo. She is a very good caller and we thank her sincerely.

Friday afternoon there was Happy Hour in the auditorium. The volunteers were Don and Ellen Holden, and Bonnie Fullan. They ably took care of everyone. Thank you very much. The entertainment was music played by Stan Griffin - mouth organ, Bob Ferguson - piano and Doris where needed.

Saturday afternoon we were entertained by the Stepping Good Time Cloggers from Oshawa. This group was here in the Spring and said they would come again December 9 which they did. The ladies wear white dresses trimmed with red and very full skirts. The men wear dark pants with white and red shirts. They step dance and form different figures as they go around to music. Organizer and leader of the show was Sherie Gagnon. I did get a few of their names but not all of them. There were eight dancers. Some of the tunes were, "Santa Claus is Coming to Town", "Foot Prints in the Snow", and "Winter Wonderland." Curtis Gartshore and John from West Guilford were dancers and Sherie Gagnon's husband ran the tape recorders. The residents thank them and enjoyed the program very much.

Congratulations to Lillian Curry who had her "102nd" birthday on December 10. Happy Birthday Lillian.

Mary Smith had the misfortune to fall and cut her forehead. We hope you are better soon Mary.

Rev. John Burgess conducted the Sunday night service and Alice Jones played the organ. The service was instructive and comforting and we thank both Rev. Burgess and Alice.

Monday evening Ruth and Allan Rice came to show movies. The movies were "Brown Wolf" and "Canoes". This was of the Church Hill River in Saskatchewan. They travelled for 500 miles by canoe.

Monday Evelyn Coleman came for bible study. We learned about Mary and Martha who were so differ-

Senior League

by Winnifred Barnum

ent in what they did, yet finally they were working for the same purpose. Thank you Evelyn.

Tuesday the residents who were in the main lounge were treated to Pearl Barry playing a guitar and singing good old songs. The residents thank her and appreciate her taking time out for them.

Tuesday afternoon we had a games period of euchre and crokinole. A volunteer was placed at each table with three residents. The volunteers were Jeanne Sears, Freda Hulbig, Carrie Drysdale, Helen Skelding and Mabel Deacon. We had a pleasant time and thank the volunteers sincerely.

Tuesday evening the Minden 1st Brownies, Girl Guides and Pathfinders came to the Hyland Crest auditorium. While the Guides and Brownies entertained us with a Christmas program the Pathfinders went to the bed-care wing singing carols. The leaders of each group are Faith Aggett, Kathe Belcher, Marlene Munro, Sue Hill and Debbie Mansfield. The Guides and Brownies program contained group carol singing, recitations, a play of the Night Before Christmas and Scottish dancing. Following the concert we moved to the dining room and the Pathfinders served us with a beautiful lunch. The younger children went home when they were finished. We enjoyed the evening with the children and thank everyone very much.

Wednesday evening Earl Cooper and Kathy Owens were here for a lovely evening of music.

Be careful with fire this season

"Chestnuts roasting on an open fire, Jack Frost nipping at your nose." What could be more cosy than a glowing fire in the fireplace on a frosty winter evening.

The fireplace has become a popular tradition over the holiday season, but your local fire department reminds you to be safety conscious when enjoying the fire.

Always use a proper fitting fireplace screen to stop flying sparks from igniting nearby combustibles.

Only burn materials which were designed for the fireplace. Never burn gift wrapping of any type, or the Christmas tree. These materials generate too much heat for the ordinary fireplace and often release sparks from the chimney. If artificial logs are used, follow instructions on the packaging. It is a good idea to have a spark arrester installed on top of your chimney.

When cleaning your fireplace, ashes should be placed in metal containers, stored outside your home.

Have your chimney professionally inspected and cleaned if necessary at least once a year to remove soot and creosote that can ignite and burn.

Keep a fire extinguisher in an accessible location. Know how to use it.

Make sure that you have a smoke alarm on each level of your home and test it regularly.

For further information, call your local fire department.

Enjoy a fire safe holiday season!

Don't give fire a chance to start

Can a fire happen in YOUR home? Will you know what to do if it does? Your life may depend on how you answer these questions.

Last year, 183 people died as a result of fires throughout Ontario. 160 of those died in their homes — a place where they felt safe.

The Minden fire department reminds you that since fires can escalate rapidly, they don't give much time to escape. If you have not pre-planned your escape, you may not be able to get out safely. It is important to prepare a home escape plan and have the entire family practise it.

Here are some important tips:

Plan two ways out of every area in your home. Your normal exit may be blocked.

Test emergency exists. Make sure that you open windows and remove screens and storm windows from the inside.

Practise using emergency exits in the dark. Keep a flashlight next to every bed. Most fatal fires occur at night while everyone is asleep.

Install and maintain smoke alarms on every level of the home. Test them monthly and change batteries yearly. In a fire, crawl low under smoke to avoid poisonous gases. Crawl quickly to the nearest exit.

Arrange a meeting place outside the home. Make sure everyone knows to get out quickly and go to the meeting place to ensure that all are accounted for. If someone is missing, tell a fire fighter.

Call the fire department from a neighbour's house. Do not use a phone in a burning building.

Be fire safe this holiday season!

CARD OF THANKS

Sincere thanks to the staff at Hyland Crest and especially the nursing staff who took care of our mother and grandmother, Tessa Davis. Special thanks to Dr. Holliday-Rhodes, Gord Monk and family and our many friends
whose floral contributions, donations and kind words
helped to ease the pain of our loss. Your kindness will be remembered always.

Garnet & Wanda Davis
& Family

Sometimes we go through life without realizing how many friends we have made along the way. Often, it is only when illness or tragedy strikes, and we become the recipients of your prayers, flowers, memorials, letters, cards or just plain words of comfort, that we are made aware of the fullness of your love.

To all the wonderful people who have been there for us, we say, "Thanks, and may God be with you all!"

Helen & Lloyd Johnson

Special thank you to Dr. Kala-deen and nursing staff at Minden Hospital, ambulance drivers and St. Joseph's Hospital, Dr. MacLochlin and nurses at the rehab centre, also many thanks for all those who visited and for flowers, cards and letters and phone calls. Your thoughtfulness will always be remembered.

Mrs. Mae Davis

WITH AN OUTDOOR TIMER

An outdoor timer on your car block heater saves up to 60% of its energy use. PLUS, get $15.00 cash back from Ontario Hydro.

Using a timer cuts the number of hours you need to operate your block heater. After only 3-4 hours, even at -35°C, your car starts quickly and easily.

An outdoor timer on your car block heater will let it perform just as efficiently, but will use less energy. And that will help cut your electricity bill.

Timers available locally from: Black's Home Hardware - Haliburton, Home Hardware - Minden, Schwandt's Homecare Building Centre - Gooderham, and Scott's Pro Hardware - Kinmount. Also available at participating Canadian Tire, Beaver Lumber, Do-It Centres, Cashway Lumber, Lansing BuildAll, The Building Centre, Zellers, Sears, K-Mart, Woolco, and other independent retail stores in Ontario.
